PREFACE.

PREFACE.

THE Fifth Volume of the Lineage Book embraces members of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution entering in the years 1893–94. There has been no change in presenting these records except that more stress is laid upon tracing the several lines of ancestry. It is the result of greater care having been bestowed by applicants upon their papers, but in larger degree due to the untiring research of those in the office, who have become experts, not infrequently instructing members in their vain efforts to untangle ancestral claims. I take pride in calling attention to this as the work is valuable and will greatly aid in future publications.

Historical precision is a myth, or can, perhaps, be better symbolized by shifting sands. Facts accepted for a century are suddenly discredited by the publication of an old letter, or a resurrected orderly book. Pivotal events are not subject to such disturbances, but many legends, stories and traditions cherished for generations have for want of proof been rejected.

Names continue to give trouble. Let no one become unamiable over mistakes in a name, as long as we have records sent where the family names have been three times changed since the Revolution. From such inattention to patronymic accuracy some one, of course, is injured. We have no national chirography, neither the delicacy of the French, the grace of the Germans, nor the sturdy "bold round hand" of the English. We have a something that partakes of each without the character or excellence of either. In a generation, through the labors of our public schools, we may anticipate a development in our penmanship claiming the dignity of being American, meantime the editors of Lineage Books must patiently struggle on.

This is the last volume in which a member who entered on a collateral line will appear, the constitution having been changed so as to limit membership to lineal descent by the Fourth Continental Congress. In these five volumes are the names of many young soldiers whose lives were given for liberty ere they had been crowned by family ties; also in these books the "Roll of Honor" has been glorified by illustrious heroes, notably Francis Marion, Francis Nash, Nathan Hale, Nicholas Herkimer and George Washington.

MEMBERS

OF THE

NATIONAL SOCIETY.

THE NATIONAL SOCIETY

OF THE

Daughters of the American Revolution.

MISS IDA MELISSA LEWIS. 4001

Born in Connecticut.

Descendant of Col. Jonathan Baldwin, of Connecticut.

Daughter of Burritt Horton Lewis and Harriett Melissa Hull, his wife.

Granddaughter of Garry Hull and Melissa Baldwin, his wife.

Gr.-granddaughter of David Baldwin and Hannah Leavenworth, his wife.

Gr.-gr.-granddaughter of Noah Baldwin and Elizabeth Ives, his wife.

Gr.-gr.-gr.-granddaughter of Jonathan Baldwin and Mary Bronson, his wife.

Jonathan Baldwin was lieutenant colonel of the Tenth Regiment of militia at the battle of Harlem Heights and present when Tryon attacked New Haven. He resigned in 1779.

Also No. 3251.

MRS. JULIA MATHER CROFT. 4002

Born in Connecticut.

Wife of Charles P. Croft.

Descendant of Ens. David Phelps and of Col. Noah Phelps, of Connecticut.

Daughter of William Mather and Emma Phelps, his wife.

Granddaughter of Noah Amherst Phelps and Charlotte Wilcox, his wife.

NOTE.—The number at the end of the name represents the National Number of the Member of the Society.

Gr.-granddaughter of Noah Phelps and Lydia Griswold, his wife.

Gr.-gr.-granddaughter of David Phelps and Abigail Pettibone, his wife.

David Phelps left a creditable record as a brave soldier.

Noah Phelps was the first to gather a volunteer company in the colony and one of a "committee of war" appointed to carry the project of the capture of Ticonderoga into execution, "that the military stores and cannon contained there might be used to defend the people of Boston." Being familiar with the fort, having served under Gen. Amherst, who captured it from the French in 1759, he visited it in disguise and reported the dilapidation and the lack of discipline to Col. Ethan Allen. The next morning, May 10, 1775, he participated in its capture, "one of the most brilliant exploits of the war, and accomplished without the loss of a man." In 1776 he commanded a company in Col. Andrew Ward's regiment, and was at White Plains, in the Jersey campaign, the battles of Trenton and Princeton; was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel in 1778 and colonel of the same regiment in 1779.

Also Nos. 1064, 2223.

MISS EMILY AUGUSTA LYNES. 4003

Born in Connecticut.

Descendant of Capt. Jonathan Maltbie, of Connecticut.

Daughter of Dr. Samuel Lynes and Emily Augusta Sherry, his wife.

Granddaughter of Stephen Coley Lynes and Hannah Maltbie, his wife.

Gr.-granddaughter of Jonathan Maltbie and Elizabeth Allen, his wife.

Jonathan Maltbie was commissioned by President Hancock in 1776 lieutenant, and in 1780 served on the "Trumbull," one of the first cruisers built for the Continental Navy, commanded by Dudley Saltonstall. His services in the war of Independence were recognized by President Washington when he nominated him captain in the United States Navy.

MISS HANNAH HOBART. 4004

Born in Connecticut.

Descendant of Justin Hobart, of Connecticut.

Daughter of Justin Hobart and Desire Burr, his wife.

Granddaughter of Justin Hobart and Hannah Penfield, his wife.
Gr.-granddaughter of Peter Penfield and Mary Allen, his wife.

Justin Hobart, after the burning of Fairfield, July 8, 1779, opened his home to those who were without shelter. This house, owing to its nearness to British headquarters, had been saved, and was used for church services and courts until the court house was built in 1780.

Mary Allen Penfield was the mother of Capt. Peter Penfield, who fought at Long Island.

MRS. MARY AUGUSTA HYDE SHERWOOD. 4005

Born in Connecticut.

Widow of Edwin Sherwood.

Descendant of Ens. Ebenezer Jesup and of Deacon Joseph Hyde, of Connecticut.

Daughter of Joseph Hyde and Arete Jesup, his wife.
Granddaughter of Ebenezer Jesup and Eleanor Andrews, his wife.

Ebenezer Jesup was surgeon in the Continental Army and in 1777 ensign in Capt. Nash's company of Connecticut militia on duty at Peekskill. During Tryon's invasion his house and entire property were burned. His devoted patriotism subjected him continually to persecution from Tories.

Joseph Hyde drove a team with supplies for the army at White Plains, and in 1777 was under the command of Gen. Gold Selleck Silliman at the burning of Danbury, the battle of Ridgefield, and was wounded at Crompo Hill April 28th.

MISS CORNELIA ROFF POMEROY. 4006

Born in New Jersey.

Descendant of Rev. Benjamin Pomeroy, Elihu Pomeroy, Daniel Judd, Isaac Williams and Corp. Stephen Barber, all of Connecticut.

Daughter of Isaac Pomeroy and Mary Jane Taylor, his wife.

Granddaughter of Benjamin Pomeroy and Jerusha Williams, his wife; Charles Taylor and Emily Alice Judd, his wife.

Gr.-granddaughter of Elihu Pomeroy and Lydia Barber, his wife; Solomon Judd and Mary Barber, his wife; Isaac Williams and Phebe Williams, his wife; Joseph Taylor and Esther Foote, his wife.

Gr.-gr.-granddaughter of Benjamin Pomeroy and Abigail Wheelock, his wife; Daniel Judd and Lydia Jones, his wife; Stephen Barber and Alice Cass, his wife; Wareham Williams and Rebekah Satterlee, his wife; Jeremiah Foote and Ruhamah Northam, his wife.

Benjamin Pomeroy, from 1777-78, was chaplain of the Third Regiment under Col. Samuel Wyllys.

Elihu Pomeroy turned out at the Lexington Alarm.

Daniel Judd joined the militia and was at the siege of Boston. In 1781, he was wounded at Fort Griswold and rolled down the embankment into the Thames, but was rescued by comrades who returned to bury their dead.

Isaac Williams served in militia regiments during the war.

Stephen Barber, in 1775, was corporal in a company from Hebron that marched to the relief of Boston.

Abigail Wheelock Pomeroy was the mother of Ralph Pomeroy, paymaster in the Third Regiment, Continental Line, and lieutenant from 1777-81.

Rebekah Satterlee Williams was the mother of Wareham Williams, Jr., a soldier in the Connecticut militia.

Ruhamah Northam Foote was the mother of Stephen and Ambrose Foote, who are found in the list of Connecticut pensioners.

Also No. 3685.

MRS. GRACE MELVILLE HALL WAKEMAN. 4007

Born in Connecticut.

Wife of Howard Nichols Wakeman.

Descendant of Hannah Lacey and of Abigail Selleck Silliman, mothers of patriots.

Daughter of Henry Hall and Catharine Silliman Lacey, his wife.

Granddaughter of Benjamin Lacey and Peggy Weeks, his wife.

Gr.-granddaughter of David Lacey and Catharine Silliman, his wife.

Gr.-gr. granddaughter of Benjamin Lacey and Margaret Hall, his wife; Jonathan Silliman and Ann Burn, his wife.

Gr.-gr.-gr.-granddaughter of David Lacey and Hannah Lacey, his wife; Ebenezer Silliman and Abigail Selleck, his wife.

Hannah Lacey was the mother of Josiah Lacey, a soldier at the Lexington Alarm. In 1776 he was quartermaster of Wadsworth's brigade and in 1780, when ill health compelled him to resign, had risen to the rank of captain, Connecticut Line.

Also No. 3205.

Abigail Selleck Silliman was the mother of Gold Selleck Silliman, who entered the army as colonel in 1776, and when in command of the Connecticut militia in 1779 he was captured and carried to Long Island.

MRS. SUSAN WARNER WAKEMAN. 4008

Born in Connecticut.

Widow of Zalmon Wakeman.

Descendant of Ephraim Nichols, of Connecticut.

Daughter of Bradley Nichols and Charlotte Banks, his wife.

Granddaughter of Ephraim Nichols and Miriam Bradley, his wife.

Ephraim Nichols, in 1776, was a soldier in Capt. Jonathan Dimon's company of militia and in 1777 served under Capt. Ebenezer Hill on the Hudson.

MRS. AMELIA GILBERT BULKLEY. 4009

Born in Connecticut.

Wife of Oliver Bulkley.

Descendant of Joel Gilbert and of Sergt. Isaac Gilbert, of Connecticut.

Daughter of Stephen Gilbert and Amelia Potter, his wife.

Granddaughter of Isaac Gilbert and Esther Alling, his wife.

Gr.-granddaughter of Joel Gilbert and Elizabeth Bradley, his wife.

Joel Gilbert, in 1775, served in the Fifth Regiment.

Isaac Gilbert was a private at the Lexington Alarm, and seven of the same family entered the army in 1775. He was sergeant in Col. Samuel Canfield's regiment at West Point in 1781, and received a pension for his services.

Also No. 3595.

MRS. KATE AMELIA BULKLEY JENNINGS. 4010

Born in Connecticut.

Wife of Arthur Osbourne Jennings.

Descendant of Eleazer Bulkley, Joel Gilbert and Isaac Gilbert, all of Connecticut.

Daughter of Oliver Bulkley and Amelia Gilbert, his wife.

Granddaughter of Moses Bulkley and Catherine Bulkley, his wife; Stephen Gilbert and Amelia Potter, his wife.

Gr.-granddaughter of Eleazer Bulkley and Mary Ogden, his wife.

See No. 4009.

Eleazer Bulkley, when a lad, enlisted in 1776, on the "Defense," which was fitted out at New Haven by the State of Connecticut. The "Defense" had several engagements, secured numerous prizes and captured Col. Campbell, who was exchanged for Ethan Allen, then confined in London. When discharged he enlisted in the militia for the defense of the State, and for these services, on sea and land, received a pension.

MRS. ELIZABETH HALE GILMAN VREDENBURGH. 4011

Born in Illinois.

Wife of John S. Vredenburgh.

Descendant of Judge Joseph Gilman, of Exeter, N. H.

Daughter of Benjamin Ives Gilman and Mary Elizabeth Miles, his wife.

Granddaughter of Benjamin Ives Gilman and Hannah Robbins, his wife.

Gr.-granddaughter of Joseph Gilman and Rebecca Hale Ives, his wife; Dr. Chandler Robbins and Jane Prince, his wife.

Gr.-gr.-granddaughter of Rev. Philemon Robbins and Hannah Foote, his wife.

Joseph Gilman was chairman of the Committee of Safety of New Hampshire.

Also No. 1652.

Hannah Foote Robbins was the mother of Ammi Ruhamah Robbins, chaplain in Col. Burrall's Connecticut regiment.
